

The city centre manager Andrew Cooper is planning to hold an open meeting with the buskers to discuss the situation with selling CDs. There have been complaints about this, which some people feel amounts to unlicensed trading.

Busking is on the verge of being licenced in Bath and a few of us are keen to work with officials to self regulate and delay the inevitable.

The date and place of the meeting are yet to be confirmed, but most likely be on a Saturday at the 10am buskers meeting. It is in your interests to be there.

You can read more information about this and a personal point of view by a busker here .